

Twin Frosts Damage Crops

Sweet Corn Hardest Hit

Two freezes, striking within days of each other, may have resulted in the loss of 10,000 acres of corn around the Lake Okechobee area, Associate County Agent J. H. Causey said Tuesday.

The first freeze came Feb. 28, at about 3 a. m., according to Wilbur Minney, assistant U. S. Weather Bureau Meteorologist, who said that another "cold wave" was expected on Friday, March 1. Estimates of sweet corn loss after the first frost was estimated at more than 5,000 acres.

At Clewiston, the mercury dipped to 32.5 degrees, reported Minney, and there was frost in the Belle Glade City limits.

The loss reported in the city limits here was an official 39 degrees, according to Minney. While at the Everglades Experiment Station, where the observer has his office and recording equipment, the loss was 31 degrees.

Between 640 and 800 acres of corn were estimated lost by William R. Hutton, vice president of Hutton Brothers, located northeast of Pahokee, the area that appeared to be the hardest hit by the first freeze.

The loss reported from the Hutton property was 22 degrees on a thermometer without cover while another area showed 28 degrees.

According to a spokesman from South Bay Growers, Inc., there was some damage to leafy vegetables and radishes.

Lyons Williams, a field man for the Florida Sweet Corn Advisory Committee, said that only the so-called "warm land" that is adjacent to Lake Okechobee was spared. Williams went on to say that some of the growers began plowing up operations on their young corn that was just coming up.

The Florida Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimated approximately 12,000 acres of sweet corn had been planted in the local area since the first of this year.

Temperature readings near the lake ranged from 34 to 40 degrees, said Minney, and in areas away from the lake readings were between 28 and 38 degrees.

Young sugar cane was slightly damaged, but is expected to grow out, a spokesman said, while there was no reported damage to celery.

Cane ready for harvest will benefit from the cold spell, said Minney, as it will add to the sucrose content.

While growers were waiting to see what the full loss to crops would be, the second freeze struck the Lake Okechobee area, Saturday. The second freeze was lead in by rain and high wind that followed the first frosts.

The effect of the two freezes on the industry will be several days in coming, said Williams. However, from all indications "all of the outside corn," or those fields located away from the lake were lost or severely damaged, Williams reported Tuesday.

Approximately 16,000 acres of corn were reported planted on the schedules announced by the crop reporting service, Causey said, when the weather turned cold.

A tour of the plantation and Homestead areas show that 1,250 acres of sweet corn may have been lost in these sections, said Williams.

Zellwood area plantings, began the first of the month, show there was no damage from either of these freezes, but that a cold snap later this month could wipe out the crop.

"The prettiest" seen in this section for several years is the way Williams described the crop that was wiped out. Growers had been staggering the plantings to avoid overfloading the market during late April and early May.

The acreage reduction will result in less yield of those fields not destroyed, Williams said. Sweet corn being grown on Krasner Island was reported to have shown some damage.

Mutual Aid Pact Studied By County

A mutual aid agreement, now under study by the Palm Beach County police chiefs, will enable 33 municipalities and the Sheriff's office to call for assistance from any, or all of the subdivisions, that agree to join the proposed pact.

The meeting, held February 28 in Pahokee, discussed briefly the plan as drafted up by Asst. State Atty. Zell Davis.

A committee was named to study the plan and how similar mutual aid pacts were arranged in other areas. Chairman of the study group, Chief Charles D. Goodlett, said that his committee would make its recommendations to the Palm Beach County Chiefs Association at the next meeting, March 14.

Other members of the committee are: Davis; Robert J. Whidman, director of administration, Palm Beach County Sheriff's office; and William Bennett, Chief of Law Enforcement, Sheriff's office.

Under the proposed plan, participating agencies could utilize neighboring policemen from the various fire departments in case of an emergency.

If adopted, each department would be responsible for the cost of any manpower and equipment as needed and available.

There would be no charge between the communities for the service, and no reimbursement for loss or damage to equipment being used in the mutual aid pact.

There will be no liability or responsibility on any agency, if it were impossible to answer a call for assistance.

Should a fireman or policeman be injured while in another community, that subdivision would not be responsible for a claim of workman's compensation benefits.

Davis' proposal stated expenses, such as attorney fees and costs, as well as the defense of claims for liability, either civil or criminal, would be paid by the subdivision where such liability occurs.

Adoption of the pact would put it in effect for three years with an automatic three-year renewal clause.

However, any municipality could withdraw from the pact by first giving notice by registered mail to all parties 30 days before withdrawal.

Invitations have been sent to the cities of Atlantic, Belle Glade, Boca Raton, Boynton Beach, the town of Cloud Lake, city of Delray Beach, the towns of Glenside and a Golfview.

Tow, Hillsborough, Juno Beach, Jupiter, Greensboro City, Jupiter Inlet Colony, town of Lake Clarke Shores and Lake Park, city of Lake Worth, and towns of Lantana, Manalapan and Mangonia Park.

Also, Village of North Palm Beach, town of Ocean Ridge, city of Pahokee, town of Palm Beach, village of Palm Springs, city of Riviera Beach, village of Royal Palm Beach, city of South Bay, village of Tequesta and city of West Palm Beach.

Before the agreement becomes binding, it will have to be accepted by the Palm Beach County Board of Commissioners.

If the pact is signed, the suggested official depository would be the office of the Sheriff, who will be responsible for notifying all the participating units.

Growers Show 'Wares' At London Exhibit

The second United States Department of Agriculture fresh fruit and vegetable exhibit March 6-14 is now in progress at the U. S. Trade Center in London, England.

Among the principal states represented is Florida, along with Texas and California.

Morris Odesky, of Morris Sales and Export Company, is in charge of the display sponsored by Gressinger & Sons, Produce, Belle Glade. The 8-day show is for the benefit of buyers and importers throughout Europe.

Odesky reports that prospects for celery are good in the English field it to their liking. Other favored produce includes sweet corn, radishes, peppers and salad greens.

Florida Department of Agriculture workers are manning those booths which are without appointed representatives.

Sugar Quota Hearing

The USDA today announced a public hearing to determine a method of allotting a full 1968 sugar quota for the mainland cane sugar area. The hearing will be held March 13, beginning at 10 a. m., at the Columbus Motel, in Miami, Fla.

Rep. Humphrey Speaks To Merchants Assoc

Members of Belle Glade met Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce to hear the distinguished speaker, Representative Joe Humphrey.

While waiting for the members to arrive, Rep. Humphrey discussed the problems of the teacher walk-out. He brought out that only four other cities in the United States paid higher than Palm Beach County, Washington D.C., New York City, Chicago and San Francisco, Humphrey stated.

"The NEA is a front, that's all it is, a front. The NEA and FEA are unions and everybody ought to know it," Humphrey went on to say he voted against all tax bills because he felt that money would not produce better education.

Burnie Lee, President of the Merchants Association, introduced the first order of business as the Peddler's Bill, recently passed by the legislature and challenged as unconstitutional by the peddlers in court.

Representative Humphrey, who drafted the bill for the merchants and presented it to the legislature, was called on to explain the bill and the one most familiar with the Peddler's Bill, he added with research material and facts during the trial. The bill states that no citizen or non-citizen is allowed to peddle his wares in any agricultural area where they would be causing a traffic hazard, and upon these grounds the case was won.

Carnivals are also presenting a problem to the local merchants. These carnivals, usually sponsored by a church organization, come into the area for one weekend or a week and drain the economy of the area for a matter of a few days.

Representative Humphrey was asked to check on the legal aspects of banning carnivals in agricultural areas.

The meeting ended with a discussion on whether or not to make Avenue A and Avenue B one-way streets. All merchants present at the meeting agreed that making Avenue A one-way to the west and Avenue B one-way to the east would ease the traffic problem on the corner where Royal's Department Store is located.

Charles Royal and Burnie Lee will join Police Chief Charles Goodlett in presenting the proposal to the City Commission.

Market Report

Moody's market prices were still good. All slaughter cattle were steady except steers, which were up about 50c. Stocker steers were up 50 to 100. Every thing else was about the same.

P. M. Meeks, Belle Glade, topped the market supply with a 45c calf. Total number of cattle sold was 429, 76 percent to slaughter and 24 percent to stockers.

The addition, built by the Bert Roemer Construction Co., a local concern, will permit a water increase of 3,800,000 gallons daily in addition to the present 2,700,000 gallons.

An overhead storage tank is also being built, Hugely stated.

The new plant is estimated to care for the needs here for approximately the next 15 years.

"The rate of growth of any given community," Hugely stated, "is merely a guess. It is possible we may outgrow the facility sooner than expected."

TAKE PISTOL CLINIC—Belle Glade area women participating in the Self Defense Pistol Training Clinic are shown here, listening to their instructors.

Pistol Training Clinic Continues

The Self Defense Pistol Training Clinic now in its third week will start the next meeting at the Pahokee police station at 9:45 a. m., Saturday, and proceed from there to the Pahokee pistol practice range.

Sponsored by the Belle Glade Jaycees, the clinic will extend longer than the originally planned two weeks. Joel Bass, class instructor, pointed out that the Army takes 16 hours for "dry fire" before getting into "wet fire," however he also explained that this was for the benefit of a reflex action while under fire.

Similar programs to this one have been conducted in several of the larger cities with phenomenal results. Orlando reports that only six weeks after the program was started there was an impressive drop in the crime rate. Kansas City had 180 women take advantage of the firearms instruction course and also reported a definite drop in crime.

City Hall employees, in the meantime, will be briefed on the new plant so that they may act as guides for the inspection tour.

The addition, built by the Bert Roemer Construction Co., a local concern, will permit a water increase of 3,800,000 gallons daily in addition to the present 2,700,000 gallons.

WSWN Features New Program

As a public service feature, WSWN will present the first in a series of programs produced and directed by the inmates of the Glades Correctional Institution. As a result of arrangements made this week by Mr. L. P. Parson, GCI Superintendent, and Mr. Marvin Smith, WSWN Manager, the new show will make its bow Sunday, March 10th, at 6:00 pm. AM Station.

The "Wonderful World of Words" was originally planned by the GCI Education Department as a social studies project for educational use. Don Garner, of the WSWN staff, who assisted in the early stages of production, saw possibilities in the program for public entertainment and information. Talents and facilities from both WSWN and the Glades Correctional Institution were combined to make the program available for broadcasting.

The aim of the Wonderful World of Words program is to portray, dramatically, how the written and spoken word can mold public opinion and spur opinion into action. To quote from the script, "they (words) have allowed the magnificent ideas of man to be communicated to other men. They have enabled us to preserve our experiences for the future. They have permitted us to tap the accumulated knowledge of age past."

Welcome then, to the Wonderful World of Words! Sunday at 6:00 P. M.

THE FISHING REPORT

The speckled perch fishing continues excellent, and the warming trend the first of the week brought with it improved bass fishing also.

Frank Blocker and Lee Arden caught their limits of Specks on Saturday and again on Sunday. They are from Ft. Lauderdale.

Dan May went out Sunday night and brought in 50. He went again on Monday and came in again with 50. It is unusual for Mr. May to bring in a limit catch when he goes without his wife.

Helen Corbin, Belle Glade, caught a nice string of Specks fishing from the dock at Slim's Fish Camp.

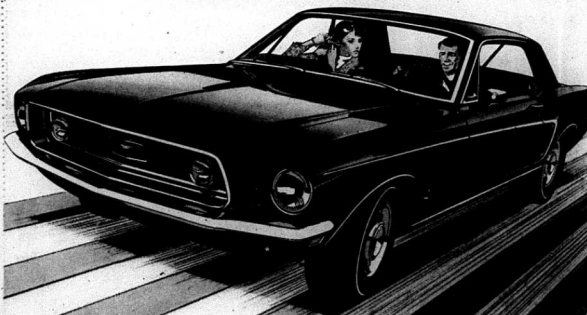

Doc Cone, West Palm Beach, caught a nice string of bass and specks on Sunday.

Several other nice strings of bass were brought in on Monday.

Weather conditions permitting, fishing conditions should be excellent for the coming weekend.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Threat To A Free Press

The right of the American public to know what is going on in the world of crime is basic to the protection of good order in the nation. If Americans are denied the right to know all the facts concerning arrests, for example, they will be unable to have a true picture of criminal activity and how their communities are endangered.

Unfortunately, the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association has taken action that seriously impinges on the right of the free press to know facts and on the right of the people to know. At its recent meeting in Chicago, the ABA adopted new rules of conduct for lawyers and new procedures for judges. If these are put into effect by state bar associations, the American people will be dangerously deprived of needed information.

Under the new ABA rules, it would be unethical for a prosecutor or a defense lawyer to tell newsmen anything about a pending case except the barest facts regarding a defendant's identity.

For example, a lawyer would be forbidden to cite a defendant's arrest record or previous convictions. He could not disclose whether a person charged with a crime had made a confession. No information could be released on the results of police tests administered. Nor could data be released on witnesses.

The ABA also recommended that police departments adopt similar restrictions. And judges are urged to employ contempt powers to enforce the restrictions on the police and lawyers. In addition, the news media would be barred from pre-trial hearings and from portions of a trial held without the presence of a jury.

There is terrible danger in these recommendations, which were approved by a vote of 176 to 68. The way would be cleared for prosecutors to hold proceedings that were virtually secret in nature. Police officials could conceal arrest information that would be politically damaging to officials.

The public would be deprived of information concerning dangers in its midst. The ABA rules represent a giant step toward the abolition of the historic freedom of the press which has been a powerful instrument in protecting the liberties of the people.

The House of Delegates of the American Bar Association has a right to make whatever rules it pleases for its own members — up to a point, that is. The cut-off point is where such rules deprive the public of necessary information and threaten the open nature of the American court system.

The ABA has no writ of authority to trespass on the public's right to know through the agency of a free press. The United States Constitution and the Constitutions of the 50 states do not give the ABA authority to issue rules that have the force of law or that tend to cause violations of constitutional freedoms.

What the ABA rules suggest is a new form of censorship over the press. This point was made in forceful manner by one of the ABA delegates, Frank N. Bratton of Athens, Tenn.

"I do not believe," said Mr. Bratton, "that the courts should ever assume censorship over the press. This point was made in forceful manner by one of the ABA delegates, Frank N. Bratton of Athens, Tenn."

The proposed ABA restrictions are all the more unjustified in view of the rise of criminality in our country. The United States faces a grave crime problem, with many more victims of violent public order and with organized crime taking a stronger grip on our cities. In addition, there is the growth of drug peddling on college campuses as well as in towns and cities. This crime, if it is to be eliminated, must be subjected to close scrutiny by the free press. The American people need much more information on crime and criminals, not less.

The U. S. Supreme Court has made it extremely difficult to convict law-breakers. As a result, many criminal types virtually laugh at law enforcement agencies. Now, if the ABA succeeds in depriving the public of information that only the news media can furnish, the criminal element in this nation will have won a great victory. If the press may not expose all the available facts on lawbreakers, the hoodlum element will have vastly greater opportunity to tyrannize American communities. Clearly, the House of Delegates of the ABA should weigh the implication of its decision and reconsider its stand.

"I do not believe," said Mr. Bratton, "that the courts should ever assume censorship over the press. This point was made in forceful manner by one of the ABA delegates, Frank N. Bratton of Athens, Tenn."

Local Business

Motor operators say that three-fourths of their registrants can not remember their automobile license numbers. This is true even though the drivers see their tags dozens of times daily.

The strange quirk of the human mind to reject information which it does not need to hold explains much about the effectiveness of various kinds of advertising. It explains the growth of drop peddling on college campuses as well as in towns and cities. This crime, if it is to be eliminated, must be subjected to close scrutiny by the free press. The American people need much more information on crime and criminals, not less.

Many people can not remember phone numbers which they call daily. Some can not remember their own phone numbers. Most of us can not remember the time, or even the day, of a television program which we watch every week.

In fact, normal people would lose some screws if they

Too Late to Classify

By Russell Kay

While to the best of my knowledge I have no ancestors of Irish descent, from my earliest childhood I have understood that March 17 is an important date.

Without knowing just why I have participated in St. Patrick's Day parades, made it a point to wear something green in honor of a saintly gentleman ancestor without question that he was responsible for driving the snakes from the Emerald Isle and accomplished many other exploits.

Unlike Virginia, who developed doubts about Santa Claus, I never questioned the existence of St. Patrick, although my actual knowledge of him was practically nil.

Now, thanks to an article in the current issue of the Reader's Digest, I have at last gained some authentic facts that should make my celebration of St. Patrick's Day more meaningful.

To start with St. Patrick was not an Irishman. He was a Roman. His real name was Patrick Magoun Succan. He was born of British parents, about the year 385, probably somewhere near the Severn Estuary, on England's west coast. Although Christianized, England still lay within the borders of the crumbling Roman Empire, and Patrick grew up a Christian and Roman citizen.

The Irish had remained unconquered by the Romans and they conducted raids on the English coast. It was during one of these expeditions that young Patrick, then only 16, was taken prisoner and carried back to Ireland as a slave.

Although a rough and rugged figure of a man, Patrick was possessed of a burning Christian faith and an iron will that made him a giant among men. When opportunity presented itself, he escaped and managed to reach the coast of France. Here he began preparing himself to become a missionary so that he could return to the Ireland he had learned to love even as a slave, and do battle for the souls of the rustics whom he had lived with as a slave. Well versed in the Bible, he took several religious orders and was dispatched to Ireland to establish a Christian mission.

His zeal was unabated. He established many churches and was constantly at conflict with the Druids, who at that time controlled and ruled the country, keeping the people in poverty and ignorance. Wherever he went he made converts and trained priests from among his following.

Born storytellers, the Irish have embroidered their scanty knowledge of their Saint's career. They credited him with using the beloved shamrock to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity and molded him in their minds and hearts as the symbol of Ireland itself.

No true Irishman can ignore St. Patrick's Day and it is doubtful if any ever will.

AGREEMENT

Rare is the individual who always finds himself in agreement with the way things are going, in the home, on the job, around the neighborhood, and within the community.

This is as it should be: we are individuals. We have our individual likes and dislikes.

Rarer, perhaps, is the individual who will lend his support and add to a project he does not fully agree with, but still recognizes as beneficial to other individuals or to the community at large.

If this happens, you have become a better person. You have become a better Christian. Your life will be more enriched.

Are Teens To Blame

Everywhere people go now they hear complaints about teenagers. The news every evening is filled with the hippies, marchers and draft card burners. Many people are asking why they are doing this. Part of the solution may be found in the example being set by the adults.

Complaints have been heard everywhere about the high rate of teens using drugs, but have you ever stopped to think about all the drugs the average adult uses in a day? They may not be as harmful as the drugs teens use but they still set the example. Many adults don't start the day without their coffee. Before they have gone half way through the day they have to have an aspirin or a tranquilizer. Many of them take pep pills and diet pills and many other kinds of pills. Then they end the day with a sleeping pill so they can rest to get up the next day to start over again.

The sell and use of alcohol is another problem that is shared by adults and teens. Why do people think it is so bad for teens to drink when they do it themselves? Is there age the only reason for looking down on it? No teenager has ever had access to an alcoholic beverage without the aid of an adult whether they got it from the family refrigerator or whether they bought it from and older person. If grown-ups can drink, why can't teens? Social drinking by adults is done for the same reason that kids drink when dared by their friends.

Another problem that faces our society today is that of smoking. Lately I heard someone say that he could not see why so many teens were beginning to smoke after all the things scientists have told them about the harmful effects of it. He said that it was just plain stupid. This is true and teens are stupid for doing this, but adults are just as stupid for knowing these same facts and not quitting even though it might be difficult.

Pornography and "Bad" movies are criticized by adults. The people who write these books and produce these movies are not teens, they are adults. There is no avoiding the fact that adults hold the night time responsibility for the films and they must take the first move to correct the problem. Both adults and youth share these problems and the responsibility for solving them. Our time could not be spent fighting over whose fault the problems are, but on accepting the responsibility of solving them. Are you willing to accept this responsibility?

Movie Reviews

Acclaimed one of the best movies of the year and nominated for 10 academy awards, including best actor and actress, is GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER.

Katherine Houghton as Joey is a young girl in her twenties who lives in San Francisco with her parents, Katherine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy. Installed into her as a child, Joey is brought up to believe in the worth of the individual and not his color. So it shouldn't be too much of a surprise to her liberal parents when she falls in love with and plans to marry a Negro doctor, (Sidney Poitier) while she is vacationing in Hawaii. But what a shock it is! Both families of the couple become terribly upset and begin work on this unforeseen problem.

Sidney Poitier seemed to be more convincing when he was playing the role of the son with his mother than as the fiancé of Katherine Houghton. Up to GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER is a very interesting movie. It has killed actors effectively portraying controversial issues.

HOW I WON THE WAR is a sharp, biting satire on the war heroes of the movies. The humor is British and therefore you have to listen to understand. At first glance the movies may seem to be merely slapstick comedy but if you wait you see what may be the first true war story ever filmed. You will see the blood and guts and terror that make war a hell on earth. Ever since I can remember, and perhaps ever since war has been portrayed on film, they have been just one big game. We forget about the true way a war is fought. The men that are left to mow, cry, and pray on the battlefield. We forget about the men who come back from war missing an arm or leg. And we try not to think about the men who come back at all.

HOW I WON THE WAR tries to show the truth of war through satire. When you go to see this movie be prepared to think, and when you think be prepared to be horrified. The movie that America has never had to fight a war on her own soil.

There, To Win The War

By Sandy Betts

The mortars fall as thickly as rain.

The jets streak through the night in brilliant lighting.

The bombs, bursting, sound as thunder.

The ground is muddier than any pitch.

And the men who walk in it are not giants.

These men are no more, or any less than you and I.

Some men cry at night because they are afraid to die.

Others laugh at jokes as they slip away to a house of ill-fame.

Still others drink themselves in the liquor they buy.

And those of the new cult, take a slow drag on a Mary Jane.

These are trapped men, fighting for their lives.

They have learned not to think. Not to remember the bodies lying on the battlefield.

They don't think about the men they are caught in the crossfire.

Or the little children who starve in the street.

No and they don't think about the defectors.

And the pickets and the riots at home.

They have to do so. They have to win a war... Everyday.

It's A Fact!

A Little Bit

A little bit of love, please let it be,

A little bit of love to cover me,

A little bit of love to make me, would bright

A little bit of love to make me, freedom right.

A little bit of happiness to see where to go,

A little bit of happiness to show us the road,

A little bit of happiness to show that we care,

A little bit of happiness to have us all share.

A little bit of hope to help us to go on,

A little bit of hope to make us strong,

A little bit of hope to help us see,

A little bit of hope to let us be free.

A little bit of faith in God above,

A little bit of faith to show us His love,

A little bit of faith to show us His great works,

A little bit of faith to hear His great words,

A little bit of love that comes from above,

A little bit of happiness to show Him our love,

A little bit of hope to show us that we care,

A little bit of faith to show us will share.

Embarrassment Is...

Going on a baseball trip and forgetting the pants to your uniform!

Coming to class just as the bell rings and forgetting your books!

Falling down the stairs at the Junior-Senior Prom!

Kissing your girlfriend good-night while her parents are peeking out the window.

Helping a friend on a test and finding out that he or she made a better grade than you.

Running a stop-watch while a policeman is watching you.

Hitting a home-run and being called out for not touching first base!

Telling a joke and no-one laughing except you.

Being mistaken for a 14-year old girl, when you are really 18 years old.

Receiving a trophy at an athletic banquet and dropping it.

Turning down a date because you are waiting for another boy to ask you—but he never does!

Picking up a fumble at a football game and running in the wrong direction.

Forgetting your lines in the Senior Play!

Losing your contacts on the gym floor in the middle of an important basketball game.

Having the boy you have a crush on to walk by just as you are talking with him!

What The Flag Means

The Flag is many things. It is a mark of identification of ships at sea and of armies in the field. It is a means of communication. When you see our Flag in front of a home, it says for all the world to read, "Here lives a family that is American in spirit as well as in name." The Flag is a mirror, reflecting to each person his own ideals and dreams. It is a history. Its thirteen stripes and fifty stars embrace a record written greatly during these years since 1776. It is a mark of pride in a great word—the word "American." It is an aspiration of what small children want their lives to be. It is a memory of the end of life of all that live to be. It is a ribbon of honor for those who have suffered in well—in peace and war. It is a warning not to doubt from the long road that has brought our country and its people to a degree of prosperity and happiness never achieved under any other banner.

White Without Grade or Color

The hour is null—the day nonexistent.

The darkness of night never reaches my sight.

I gaze around my lighted cell—these are emblems, not illumination endlessly.

Upon the spotless white floor, the white bedstead,

And one desk of pure, colorless white.

I am not contaminated by filth and dirt.

No dust reaches my table top, no clutter of ornaments.

No color of red or green to destroy my purity.

I live in a world of white. I go not out beyond.

Yes beyond the clean white wall that encompasses me.

To transgress never enters my ideal mind.

I think not, for indeed I have not been taught.

Of the dirt of the earth, of snakes in the grass.

The baloon stomachs of starving children.

The deadly bombs of man's creation, the emotions.

Hate, prejudice, lust, despair—these are the sins of the flesh.

The fill of the earth, beyond my comprehension.

My thoughts are like the clean, unyellowed sheets.

Without wrinkles, without the mark of man.

Like my world—white without complaints.

Without the thoughts of a farmer's lot.

To feed the child—or an out-stretched hand.

No knowledge of the hate transformed into love.

Not of a sinner, who from the choice of good or bad.

Takes a new start with good in his hand.

But I live in my white world, free of the earth.

For I think not, I know not. I AM NOT!

Culpepper Is Candidate

The Mayor of Jupiter, Robert F. Culpepper, Democrat, announced today that he will be a candidate for the Board of County Commissioners, District One, which is the north section of the county.

Mayor Culpepper, 36, is a native of Palm Beach County and a product of the Palm Beach County public school system. He is the son of John W. Culpepper, retired West Palm Beach police officer, and served in Korea with the U.S. Army as a communications sergeant.

Culpepper cited the "need for greater representative government and for the people to have a more direct voice in the daily affairs of county government" in announcing his candidacy.

For the past 18 years, Culpepper has been employed with Southern Bell Telephone Company and has continued to advance over the years with the company and is now District Plant Sales Supervisor in West Palm Beach.

A lifelong resident of West Palm Beach, Culpepper, who was born in Lake Park, moved to Jupiter in 1960 where he served as President of the Jupiter Jaycees and received the Jaycee of the Year Award in 1963 and was elected State Director of the Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In recognition of his public service as Mayor of Jupiter, the Jaycees selected him as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1966.

Culpepper resides in Jupiter with his wife, Anna Lee, and their three children, where he is a member of the Jupiter Light Masonic Lodge, a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason, a member of the Board of Directors of the Isaac Walton League of America, a boy scout troop committeeman, and an ordained deacon in the Presbyterian Church.
